

FIREMEN RESCUE MANY TRAPPED BY BLAZE IN HARLEM

Fusillade of Revolver Shots
Adds to Panic in Big Tenement.

An exciting two-alarm fire, attended by many rescues, occurred early to-day at Nos. 416-8 and No. 420 East One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, the one a five-story tenement occupied by twenty-two families, and the other an old-fashioned three-story brownstone house used as a Health Department milk station.

The blaze started in the milk station and trapped sixty-year-old Michael Phalen, his wife Florence and their two young children, Joseph and Howard, on the third floor. Finding other means of escape cut off, Phalen lowered the children to an eight-inch coping on the front of the building, and let his wife down after them, and while the others supported themselves by holding to an old awning frame, closed the window carefully behind him and gained the same place of temporary safety. All were carried down extension ladders by Firemen James Finnerty and John Kelling of Truck No. 42.

There was a panic in the big tenement adjoining when the fire communicated to it in the rear. The front fire escapes were quickly blocked with furniture and personal belongings which the frightened tenants sought to carry down. A fusillade of revolver shots brought five policemen, but after one trip as far as the second floor they were unable to marshal any more people to the street. The building was finally cleared by means of extension and scaling ladders. A number of top floor tenants escaped over the roof by dropping twelve feet to an adjoining house.

The damage is set at $10,000.

TWO MEN SCORCHED BY BACK DRAUGHTS AT SIXTH AVENUE FIRE

Policeman Bauer, Severely
Burned, Saves Janitor—
Fireman in Hospital.

Policeman Henry Bauer of the West Thirtieth Street Station and Fireman Michael Carmody of Engine Company No. 21 were slightly burned and cut by back draughts during a two-alarm fire at No. 63 Sixth Avenue, one door north of Thirty-ninth Street, at 8 A. M. to-day.

There is a moving picture theatre on the ground floor of the building and a Greek club on the second. The three other floors are unoccupied. The fire started on the second floor, and was discovered by Policeman Bauer, who knew Fletcher McAdoo, the janitor, slept in the basement.

He had snatched in a door to warn McAdoo when a back draught knocked him down and burned him. He kept on, however, and brought McAdoo to the street. The second back draught that hurt Fireman Carmody blew out the front windows. He was taken to New York Hospital.

The flames were blown back against Maxine Elliott's Theatre, but fire shutters protected it. The flames were confined to the Sixth Avenue building, doing an estimated damage of $10,000.
